6. Antonin, Arnold. PREFETE DEFFAUT. PIÉTÉ URBANISME IMAGINAIRE. Port-au-Prince: Centre Petion-Bolivar, 2007. DVD, 34 min. New. (153525) $40.00
Préfète Duffaut est un peintre haïtien, né le 1er janvier 1923 à Cyvadier, près de Jacmel. Enfant, il aide son père qui est constructeur de bateaux. Seul, il commence à dessiner. Quelques mois après l'ouverture du Centre d'Art de Port-au-Prince en 1944, Rigaud Benoit et un groupe d'artistes se rendent à Jacmel à la recherche de nouveaux talents. Le jeune Duffaut se présente à eux avec la certitude que son destin va changer. Durant la nuit il fait un songe. La vierge lui apparaît main tendue, perchée au sommet d'une montagne en forme de pain de sucre. Elle lui donne l'ordre de peindre sa ville. Soucieux de s'acquitter au plus vite de cette dette céleste, le jeune Duffaut s'acharne à reproduire Jacmel dans ses moindres détails. A l'instar du Douanier Rousseau qui, pour ses portraits, prenait les mensurations exactes de ses modèles et les rapportait sur la toile à l'aide d'un compas et d'une règle graduée; Duffaut s'efforce de reconstituer à la perfection les rues sinueuses et verticales, les maisons délicates et colorées du début du siècle : les Gingerbread. Pour ne rien laisser au hasard, il inscrit sur son tableau le nom des édifices : École, douane police, hôpital. L'effet obtenu est saisissant. Sens inné de la composition, génie des couleurs, maladresse picturale font de ses premiers tableaux des chefs-d'œuvres de l'art naïf. L'on sent une révélation, c'est-à-dire un effet de jamais vu en Haïti.

In this work, Vivaldi Jean-Marie begins with an interpretation of the rise of Vodou practices in Saint-Domingue which is sensitive to the social, spiritual and cultural challenges of the slaves communities in Saint-Domingue, later Haiti. He shows effectively that Vodou cosmology emerged as a spiritual, social and cultural technology for the enslaved to overcome the dissonance and brutality of slavery in Saint-Domingue. Vodou Cosmology thus assumes the tripartite role of spiritual, social and cultural compass for slaves who, concurrently with the development of Vodou, managed to establish a common ethos.

In most of Haiti's rural zone, saying "Good Morning" when approaching the people is more important than knowing the direction of the road. In order to better understand this concept, you should go near St Rock's Chapel. In fact, once you say "Good Morning" to the people living in this area, they are ready to climb up the mountains "Tay Fe" or "Malanga" to take you to any house you are looking for. People close to this chapel are similar to their "kenep" (tropical fruit), believed to be the sweetest "kenep" ever. Women in the vicinity of St. Rock's chapel do the laundry, get their clothes in the city and are clean people. Meanwhile, the men make small chairs and baskets. I knew a man called Charitab near the chapel who used to make small chairs and baskets. When he goes to the city to sell his products, he is always as overloaded as a packhorse, with everything on his head.
